Dear GC Wire and E. Brian Rose:

It has been brought to my attention that on May 23, 2025 GC Wire and its editor E. Brian Rose published a news article using my name and image while representing that I “played multiple roles in the Securix saga.” GC Wire further reported that I served as a consultant for Securix and was “paid $6 per traffic citation.” It has been made known to me that this publication containing these allegations has been shared multiple times on social media.

For the record, these allegations are categorically false and were published without a comment of any kind from myself and without any attempt to discuss this matter with myself whatsoever. I have never had a contractual relationship with Securix nor have I ever received any financial compensation from Securix as a result of the issuance of any citations or tickets of any kind. I own no interest in Securix nor have I ever been employed by Securix in any manner. This applies to Securix as well as to its owners and any related entities.

I do not serve as general counsel to the City of Senatobia, however my law firm was hired by the City of Senatobia to represent the City in litigation that resulted from the City’s contractual relationship with Securix. This litigation is a public record and it was ultimately settled amicably between the parties. It is my understanding that Securix did pay the legal costs incurred by the City as a result of this litigation.

Although I respect every American’s First Amendment rights, I do not condone the dissemination and spread of false and misleading information. Accordingly, I respectfully ask that GC Wire and its editor E. Brian Rose properly redact and edit its publication to reflect the truth of this matter as it relates to myself and my likeness.

Thank you.

Trey
